Assessments details

Assessments details are given in class. Your teacher will explain the requirements of each assessment and will use an Assessment Cover Sheet detailing the marking criteria. The Cover Sheet is also used to record marks and comments for your assessments with reference to marking criteria.

Assessment deferral

Students who are unable to submit assessments on the scheduled dates may defer that assessment provided they have a valid reason and/or evidence. An approved Absence Justification will not automatically extend or defer these dates. Instead, students must fill in an Assessment Deferral form and submit it to english@curtin.edu.sg within 2 working days of the missed assessment along with evidence. Once deferral has been approved, a new date for submission of the assessment will be set. It is essential that the student be present for the assessment on the new deferred date. There will be no opportunity to defer the assessment date a second time. Repeated failure to submit the assessment will result in a mark of zero being awarded for that assignment.

Marking and moderation

Teachers are responsible for marking all course specific assessments for their classes. For the marking of assessments, teachers must go through a process of internal moderation. This means that another teacher will mark at least three of the assessments from your class so that your teacher can compare the marks that he or she has given with the marks that the other teacher has given. For seminars this may involve another teacher coming into your classroom to watch members of your class giving their seminars, or your seminar being videoed and moderated later.

Results

Assessment results will be released to you within 14 working days of the assessment date or by the final Friday of the course, whichever comes first. Final overall results are rounded up to the nearest whole number and will be available on the Final Result Publication day according to the Academic Calendar.

Re-submission of assessments

Academic English students may resubmit one assessment per unit and the maximum mark possible for the resubmitted assessment is 50%. A seminar must be resubmitted at a time dictated by the teacher and should be watched by at least two teachers. Only cumulative totals count for Academic English 2 weekly essays so in practice some of these can be at fail standard and the student can still pass the whole assessment item.

Failure & repeating an English unit

A student is allowed to repeat a unit once. A second failure may lead to termination from the program.

Conditional status - student has failed a unit and is now repeating.

A student on Conditional status will be closely monitored by the teacher and may be tasked to do additional work outside of class. The student may meet with the Director of Studies (English) to discuss his or her progress.

Failure & repeating an academic English unit

A repeating student must complete all the assessments. If a student scores a lower mark when repeating an assessment, the previous higher score can be retained as long as the lower of the two marks is a pass. However, if a student fails an assessment which they previously passed, the failure must stand.

Assessment appeals

If a student is dissatisfied with awarded marks, he or she may submit the Diploma of English for Academic Purposes Assessment Appeal form to english@curtin.edu.sg within 10 working days from the result release. The appeal procedure will take up to 10 working days. The student will first meet with their respective teacher who will explain and discuss the assessment marks. If the student is still dissatisfied with the teacher's explanation, the student's assessment will be moderated. The Director of Studies (English) will make a final decision and the appeal outcome sent to the student through their student email.

Academic integrity

Academic integrity at its core is about honesty and responsibility and is fundamental to Curtin Singapore's expectations of you. This means that all of your work should be your own and it should be underpinned by integrity, which means to act ethically, honestly and with fairness.

Academic misconduct

Academic misconduct means acting dishonestly or unfairly in connection with any examination or other assessment task, or other academic work.

Types of academic misconduct

Plagiarism

Plagiarism means presenting the work or property of another person as if it were one's own without appropriate acknowledgment or referencing. Plagiarism constitutes academic misconduct and parties involved will be penalised accordingly.

Plagiarism includes:

- Copying of sentences, paragraphs or creative products (in whole or in part) which are the work of other persons without due acknowledgment. Creative products include webpages, books, articles, theses, unpublished works, working papers, seminar and conference papers, internal reports, lecture notes or recordings, computer files, images or video
- Too closely paraphrasing sentences, paragraphs or themes without due acknowledgment
- Using another person's work (including words, music, creative or visual artefacts, computer source code, designs, problem solutions or ideas)
- In the case of collaborative group projects, falsely representing the individual contributions of the collaborating partners
- Submitting work which has been produced by someone else – including friends, family or a paid contracting service (This is known as contract cheating, assessment outsourcing or ghost writing.)
- Submitting one's own previously assessed or published work for assessment or publication elsewhere, without appropriate acknowledgement (self-plagiarism)

- Using language translation or paraphrasing services (either online or contracted) to disguise original source text (cross-lingual or back translation plagiarism, and spinning)

Cheating

Cheating means acting dishonestly or unfairly in order to gain an advantage. Examples include:

- Cheating in an exam, test or supervised assessment activity.

Considered Academic misconduct:

- Being in possession of unauthorised materials
- Having a mobile phone or other electronic device in an examination or testing environment
- Copying answers from another person or permitting another student to copy answers
- Exchanging notes, talking or communicating with another student in an examination or test
- Improperly obtaining prior knowledge of an examination or test paper and using that knowledge in the examination or test or providing that information to a student(s) who are yet to undertake the examination or test

Considered General misconduct:

- Removing an examination paper from an examination room when it is specified that the paper is not to be retained by the student; storing or sharing an examination paper that was illegally obtained
- Disrupting an examination or assessment activity in any way

- Impersonating a student in an examination or arranging for another to impersonate, take or complete the assessment on your behalf.
- Cheating in an assessment or other assessable work by submitting written or creative work which has been drafted or produced by someone else – including friends, family or a paid contracting service (this is known as contract cheating, assessment outsourcing or ghost writing) and claiming authorship for it. This includes:
 - Allowing someone or an organisation to draft or complete an assessment task on your behalf
 - Contracting another person to do the work for you
 - Purchasing work from another source
 - Allowing or contracting another person to edit and substantially change your work.

Collusion

Collusion occurs when two or more individuals combine their efforts in order to deceive others. In an academic context, this can occur if you work with others on an assignment that is meant to be individual or if you help another student to complete an assignment against instructions. This is also referred to as ‘collaborating too closely.’ The result is that you submit assignments which are very similar without admitting to collaboration.

While collusion is considered to be a different form of academic misconduct to plagiarism, similar penalties will apply to both students involved in the incident.

Collusion differs from collaboration in that the latter describes an activity in which students have been given permission to work together to accomplish a task. With collaboration, students are usually asked to submit a joint assignment under joint names. In order to avoid misunderstandings, it is essential that task parameters (i.e. how the task should be done and by whom) are specific and transparent.

Translation and paraphrasing software

Students must submit out-of-class assessments, e.g., Academic English 2 research report or Academic English 3 literature survey, using their own English grammar and vocabulary. Writing an assessment in a student's first language and then using software to translate into English is unacceptable. In addition, copying and pasting text into paraphrasing software is also considered academic misconduct. Penalties will apply for any misuse of computer software.

Falsification or fabrication of data or other content

Falsification or fabrication of data occurs when data is misrepresented within an assessment or research. Examples include:

- Fabrication is making up results and reporting them
- Falsification is altering results so that the research is not accurately represented

Academic misconduct 'other'

Academic dishonesty that does not fall into the other misconduct categories.

- Falsifying medical certificates for assessment extension.

Curtin Singapore regards any act of cheating, collusion, falsification or fabrication of data, or dishonesty by way of plagiarism very seriously. There are strong penalties for breaches including annulment of results or termination from Curtin Singapore.

Test and examination rules and conditions

Requirement to have a valid Curtin Student identification

- All Curtin Singapore students are required to produce their Student ID Card in all tests and examinations and must place the card on their desk where it may be clearly seen by the invigilators.
- Students will not be provided with additional time to complete a test or examination as a consequence of delays in identity verification.

Test and examination attendance

- Students are responsible for sitting their examination as advised in any progressive test schedule or examination timetable.
- Failure to be present at the venue during the test or examination will lead to a zero for the test or examination, even if you submit work for the test or examination.

Commencement of the test and examination

- Students must arrive 30 minutes before each test or examination begins to ensure that your laptop is able to connect to the Wi-Fi and access Moodle. A briefing for each test or examination will be conducted at the venue before the start of the test or examination.

Students arriving late to the venue will not be granted additional time to complete the test or examination.

- If, for any reason, a test or examination commences late the students will not be disadvantaged. The full reading time (if applicable) and duration will not be reduced.
- If, for any reason, an examination is delayed or interrupted for more than 30 minutes, the examination may be re-scheduled at the discretion of the Director of Academic Services.

Food and drink in test and examinations

- Food or drink, other than water, will not be brought into the test or examination or consumed without permission.

Approved test and examination materials

- The possession or use of any materials (e.g. type of calculator(s), permitted notes) will be authorised by the invigilator and communicated to the student.
- If unauthorised material is found in the possession of a student or used during a test or examination, they may face disciplinary action.
- Dictionaries are not permitted in any test or examination.

Other items

- Headwear (e.g. hats, caps) is not to be worn during a test or examination with the exception of those for medical, disability or obligatory religious requirements.

Failure to undertake/late arrival/early departure from a test and examination

- Students who fail to undertake or are late for a test or examination because they misread the progressive test schedule or examination timetable details or accepted incorrect information on progressive test schedule or examination schedule details from another person, are not entitled to sit the test or examination at any other time or receive any other concession.
- Where a student has attempted to sit a test or examination in a unit but has not been able to complete or undertake the examination due to illness or some other valid reason, the student may apply for an assessment extension as per the Assessment Extension Procedure.

Conduct in the examination

- Students will adhere to examination instructions. Such instructions may define permitted reference materials and expectations regarding academic referencing.
- During an examination a candidate will not:
 - Communicate with any other student (unless required to do so);
 - Obtain, or endeavour to obtain, unauthorised assistance in their work;
 - Give, or endeavour to give, assistance to any other students; and
 - Behave in such a manner inconsistent with the proper conduct

Mobile phones, electronic devices and other aides

- Unless explicitly authorised for the purposes of an examination, students are prohibited from:
 - Accessing, being in possession of, or using any mobile phone or unauthorised electronic device;
 - Accessing, being in possession of, or using any device capable of storing information or connecting with another device, including but not limited to electronic devices;
 - Accessing, being in possession of, or using any notes or unauthorised materials;
 - Accessing, being in possession of, using any device capable of communicating with another person; and
 - Interacting or colluding with any other person.

Further requirements specific to face-to-face written examinations

- Face-to-face written examinations may have 10 minutes reading time in addition to the duration of the examination. During reading time a student may make notes or highlight text, as directed in examination instructions provided by the invigilators.
- No student will:
 - Be admitted to the venue after the first hour (including reading time) has expired;
 - Leave the venue until one hour of the examination has expired;
 - Leave the venue during the last 15 minutes of the examination; and

- Be re-admitted to the venue after they have left unless, during the full period of their absence, they have been under approved supervision

Irregular practices

- Irregular practices by a student during an assessment may result in one or more of the following immediate actions:
 - unauthorised materials being confiscated.
 - being allowed to continue the assessment but being investigated afterwards.
 - being removed from the assessment venue.
- In a situation where a student is suspected of misconduct, a full written report must be made by the Invigilator. This must be submitted to the Director of Studies (English) immediately after the assessment together with the student's assessment paper and any confiscated materials.
- Alleged misconduct will be fully investigated subsequent to the assessment and may result in a mark of zero, or a reduced mark for the assessment being awarded.
- A student who is the subject of an investigation for alleged misconduct will be given the opportunity to submit a written explanation as to why the alleged misconduct took place.
- After an investigation the student will be contacted by the Director of Studies (English) within five (5) working days regarding the alleged irregular practice and advised in writing of the results of the investigation and any action that the school intends to take.

Attendance requirements

It is your responsibility as a student to attend all classes. Please bring a copy of your timetable to all classes, especially in the first couple of weeks of the study period to ensure that you are attending the correct classes. Failure to attend the correct classes will result in your attendance not being recorded for that week.

Facial recognition attendance system

Curtin Singapore adopts a contactless facial recognition technology where facial features are scanned and captured by the facial recognition terminal. The data captured are then downloaded and managed by the Student Attendance System (SAS) to generate attendance record..

Student's attendance guidelines

Students are expected to

- arrive on time for each lesson;
- remain throughout the session for each lesson; and
- scan in using the facial recognition terminal at the beginning and the end of each lesson

Attendance requirement

International students

International students must achieve a minimum monthly attendance requirement of above 90%. Curtin Singapore shall inform ICA when an international student's attendance is 90% or below, or has failed to attend classes for a continuous period of 7 days or more. This may lead to cancellation of the Student's Pass.

Absence justification (AJ)

When a student is absent from class due to valid reasons, for example medical conditions, he/she is required to submit an AJ online via SAS Website at this link: <http://sas.curtin.edu.sg>

If you have a medical certificate issued by a registered medical practitioner in Singapore, it must be attached in the AJ request before the AJ can be approved. Only a maximum of 7 days of Medical Certificates (MC) are allowed per study period.

Medical statement from online services will no longer be accepted as valid supporting document and will be considered on a case by case basis where students are able to demonstrate face-to-face consultation has occurred.

Please be advised if you have any assignments or examinations due, an approved AJ will not automatically extend or defer these dates.

Curtin Singapore reserves the right at its sole discretion to reject absence reasons that are invalid or non-justifiable.

In Singapore, it is a legal offence to present forged documents to support reasons for absence. Under Section 468 of the Penal Code, offenders may face up to 10 years imprisonment, or fined, or both.

Student support services

Curtin Singapore provides student support services to students from the day they join Curtin Singapore to the day they graduate. Services provided include:

Career consultation services

Career Consultation services provide advice on avenues for a student to identify suitable career choices as well as guides through the job search process. Mock interviews provide you with an opportunity to apply and test your interview-answering skills in a real-world setting. This process will closely mirror what you might expect to undergo in a real interview, and participants will be provided with feedback on all areas of their interview performance, which includes first impressions, non-verbal communication, and ability to handle challenging interview questions, among others.

Industry engagement

Undergraduate and postgraduate students can benefit from engagement with professionals from the industry who act as mentors. You will be able to gain knowledge, skills and experience, and advice through various modes of guidance from the mentors.

Talks are regularly organised to provide a platform for students to hear from industry practitioners on the realities of working in a certain job role. These informal Q&A sessions allow students to gain an inside peek at the challenges and rewards that await them in different job roles.

Beyond the classroom workshop series

Workshops that complement your academic studies through a range of learning and development sessions that will up-skill and value-add your journey towards success and employability. Students can enrol in workshops on career planning, resume writing, interview skills, networking skills, or learn more academic skills such as assignment skills, study skills, digital skills, and referencing to expand knowledge or support your learning.

Understanding the effect of course contents, academic staff and facilities have on students has become a vital part of Curtin Singapore's improvement measures. This has resulted in Curtin Singapore implementing a suite of regular student feedback surveys as part of the continual improvement process.

Student surveys are powerful tools to help Curtin Singapore to gather valuable data which allows for an in-depth analysis of the overall campus climate, at the same time rendering a representative picture of student views. We use the analysed results obtained in each survey to review our processes, course materials, teaching methods, etc. to ensure every student enjoys high quality education services.
